The Result of the Investigation-Burton gets $35,000 of the People's Money-1. ov. Johnson fails in an Important Duty.

In another column we publish a statement furnished to the Banher of this city, by one of the Legislative investigating committee, which shows the late Secretary of State, Dr. BURTON to be a defaulter in the sum of $35,-211,61. Why the statement was made in advance of the committee's report, or whether it contains a complete statement of the balance against the Secretary we do not know. It ascertains, however, that Dr. Bur-TON has defrauded the State of a large sum, for which there is no security, and which the State must lose. The editor of the Banner States that "the law required the Governor to take a bond" from the Secretary, as commissioner to receive the turnpike dividends; "but that officer, Gov. Johnson, seems, with all his devotion to the interests of the dear people, to have neglected this important duty." It is a case of official negligence and official corruption and dishonesty. Soon after the committee commenced their investigation the Secretary was called to the Western District "on important business." When rumors of his frauds got affoat and were published in one of the city papers, he returned to this city, wrote an epistle "to the public" declaring his innocence, and the next day sent in his resignation to the Governor-after which he again disappeared, and has not since been heard of, so far as we know. He seems to have made an exceedingly good thing of it all around. He divided with the State the turnpike moneys, taking about two thirds, and giving the State the remainder; avoided involving any of his friends in any thing like an official bond on account of this fund; came to the city with a blustering air of injured innocence; offered his resignation, which was accepted and escaped for parts unknown, without running any appareat risk of arrest. His return, resignation and last disappearance, were after the committee had progressed far enough with their investigation, to have known that he was a defaulter to a considerable amount. These circumstances may be worthy of explanation. It is to be regretted that Gov. Johnson omitted to see that a bond was taken for the security of a fund, which would probably amount, during the Secretary's term of office, to one hundred thousand. We cannot esteem it anything but an oversight on the part of Gov. Johnson, but as such it results in a loss but in the "Eclectic" he is sure to find to the State of some $35,000, and is deeply to nearly every article that is really desirable. Nothing further has transpired from the committee as to the condition of affairs in the Comptroller's office, in relation to the Free Bank securities, and the interest paid on the State Bonds. The committee are aware of the anxious state of the public mind on the subject, and we are assured will make their report without unnecessary delay.

Gov. Johnson's Homestead Hobby. It has been some twelve years since Mr. Senator ANDY JOHNSON proposed this precious Homestead measure to the House of Representatives; and to use his own language "it scarely received serious consideration for a length of time." We believe that handy ANDY was the father of it in the House. Mr. CLAY, of Alabama, said recently that the paternity of it in the Senate belongs to Mr. SEW-ARD, and when first introduced by him into his official capacity as Secretary of State, and that body, received only two votes. But be- will fall upon his securities. The main defitween Mr. SEWARD and Mr. JOHNSON "the measure was pre-sed until the public mind sent in the Senate, one among his first acts was its revival, and it was "pressed" again till the Senate "took hold of it" and defeated it. We copied the New York Tribune's an- tast duty. nouncement of the fact, as also that of the Union & American, with a brief reference to the significance of the black republican sup- the State: port of the measure. Thereupon the Union & F. N. W. Burton, Commissioner of Internal Improvements, debtor to the State of Tennessee: American construes our remarks into an effort to injure a "faithful public servant;" attempt a vindication of Johnson, by quotations from his late speech, and suggests that we, as an act of justice to the Senator from Greenville, republish these extracts. We beg to assure the Senator and his organ here, that we have 1856, March 15, Rec. of W. M. Dismukes, $1,987 no disposition to do him injustice. And as 1857, we are to suppose that the extracts, being carefully selected from different parts of the 1856, Jan. 23, Rec. of J. W. Chairs, speech, contain the best that may be said in 1857. Jan his behalf, we cheerfully give them: "I live in a Southern State; and if I know myself I am as good a Southern man as any one who lives within the borders of the South.

Sir, carry out the homestead policy, attach the people to the soil, induce them to love the government, and you will have the North reconciled to the South, and the South to the North, and we shall not have invidious doctrines preached to stir up bad feelings in 1858, Nov., Re either section. I know that in my own 1887, Sept 28, State, and in the other southern States, the 1857, Dec. 4. men who do not ownslaves are among the first to take care of the institution. They will sub- 1856, Rec. of E. H. Childress, mit to no encroachment from abroad, no interference from other sections.

I believe the passage of this bill will strengthen the bonds of the Union. It will give us a better voting population, and just in proportion as men become interesed in 1857, Feb. 19, 1857, Feb. 19, property, they will become reconciled to all the institutions of property in the country in whatever shape they may exist. Take the institution of slavery, for instance; would you rather trust it to the mercies of a people liable to be ruled by the mobs of which my bonorable friend from 1858, Jan. 1, South Carolina spoke, or would you prefer an honest set of landholders? Which would be the most reliable? Who would guaranty the greatest security to our institutions, who they come to the test of the ballot-box?

Now, we have no desire to enter here into a discussion of the merits of this hobby; but we must say that Mr. Johnson is unfortunate, to say the least, in recommending his bill on the ground that it will "attach the people to the soil, induce them to love the government". We should like to know at 1857, Jan. 27, Franklin and Columbia, what value Mr. Jounson estimates that patriotism, that, love of country which is to be urchased with a quarter section of wild land. Have we reached that era in our history when we as a people and as individuals are to be hired, bribed into a support of our institutions by public bounty? It is not astonishing that such a proposition should "scarcely receive serious consideration;" but it is astonishing that a man occupying a seat, which is designed for statemen, should be found, thus bandying the appeals of the demagogue. It was searcely to be expected of the Union and American, that it would undertake the vindication of so revolting a proposition, when only four or five days before, it was denouncing the principle in discussing the repeal of the fishing bounties in these emphatic terms: "Now, it seems to us that no State or sec-tion should be bribed to adhere of the confederacy. If there is not patriotism and dis-interestedness enough in New England to bind them to their sister States, without making them pensioners upon the govern-ment, they are not worth retaining. If the allegiance they owe to the Union, has no other tenure than public plunder, no higher motive coeparation. The nation is disgraced by the Mashville Patriot scamen are educated, pensioners on the ernment;" but it is very praiseworthy, to bestow a quarter section of land on pauper forigners to "attach them to the government!" The Senator says that the passage of the bill "will give us a better voting population." To give a just idea of what he means by a better voting population, we give an extract from the same speech, which escaped the attention of "the leading democratic paper in > Tennessee," which runs thus: "When was there any nation that could look to the East and behold the tide of emigration coming, and, at the same time turn around and look to the mighty, mighty West, and behold the tide of emigration approaching from that direction? The waves of emigration have usually been running in one direction, but we find the tide of emigration now changed, and we are occupying a central position on the globe. Emigration is coming from the East and from the West, and when our vacant territory shall be filled up, when it shall reach a population of one hundred and fifty or five hundred millions, who can say what will be our destiny?

What more do SEWARD and GREELEY and their black republican, freedom, free soil, free land, free home adherents, want? The question, "who can say what will be our destiny?" when our "vacant territory shall be filled up" with a foreign population, whose "love for the government" shall be secured by land bribes, is indeed pertinent!

We have given the vindication of Gov. Jourson, and our own. And since the Union and American intimates that we are striving to injure a faithful public servant, will it in justice to us, republish this?

The "Leonard Scott Publications."

The flash papers come and go like young spendthrifts who strut "their little hour upon the stage;" the gay fashion monthlies float out like so many Flora McFlimseys, and the Pearls," and "Lilys," and "Wreaths," sentamentalize for the Rosa Matilda school; but the Eclectic Magazine and LEONARD SCOTT's reprints of the foreign periodicals come marching up to the rescue like the "solid men" in "crisis," and we turn aside to them with a feeling of relief-a belief that we grasp omething durable and substantial. We have before us the LONDON QUARTERLY for April, and BLACKWOOD for May, both of which sustain their high reputation. What, for instance, can be more interesting to the general reader than the QUARTER-LY's "Early Life of Johnson," "Fictions of Bohemia," "Italian Tours and Tourists," "Michael Angelo," and the "Siege of Lucknow," or BLACKwoon's "Food and Drink, (III part,) "Antiquities of Kertch." and "Raly of the arts, the cradle and the grave." We have also received the June No. of the "ECLECTIC," and now, as indeed at every time, a copy of this admirable Magazine arrives we cannot help repeating to ourselves the comprehensive commendation of the Hon. Theo. Frelinghuysen, who says that he could not take all the foreign Magazines if he wished. He could command sufficient time to read them all if he had them : The engraving in this No. is a mezzotint portrait of the noble hero HENRY HAVELOCK, the portrait accompanied by a most interesting biographical sketch from the Lelectic Review. Every article in the letter-press merits attention, but we would especially particularize "The Moral Discipline of Children," and "Recollections of Shelby and Byron." Every one who has a desire to keep up with the "run" of foreign literature and affairs should subscribe for the "ECLECTIC." Address W. H. BIDWELL, No. 5 Beekman street, New York.

REMARKABLE FORTITUDE.-We understan that Mrs. Samuels, of Madison county, Ky., had thirty-one teeth extracted by a dentist in this city on Saturday morning last, without getting out of her chair, and returned home that evening. This is certainly one of the most r markable cases of fortitude and ability to endure the most painful operation that can be performed that we ever heard of. The operator (Dr. Stone) states that the lady is a real heroine; that she bore the excruciating pain attendant upon the operation in a style such as he never witnessed, and that the num-ber of teeth extracted at a single sitting and a That paper is about as unfortunate as its reader. The Cuban Slave Trade. Private advices from Cuba gives us a new version of the affair of the "Buzzard" and the —which occasioned the landing of the British Officers, and the searching of the plantations near Sagua la Grande. It seems that the "Buzzard" had followed a suspicious looking vessel for several hours, and finally overhauling her. enquired her name and rativity. For answer, she ran up the English colors. The boarding officer was then sent to question the pretended English captain as to his cargo, and also to enquire whether he had not seen a suspicious American built vessel cruising about. The captain remembered distinctly having met a long, rakish craft in the morningregular clipper,—with some unmistakable signs of a living cargo being on board. She was making for the South. H. M.'s Lieutenant, fully satisfied with his information, re turned with his news to Captain Dobbin, of the "Buzzard," and forthwith H. M. ship was steered for the South, much to the delight of the rascally Yankee captain, who no soone saw the "Buzzard," fairly under way, than he too crowded on all sail, made for the North and safely landed his living cargo of 600 ne groes near Sagua la Grande,

But, the omnipotent "Buzzard" had not sailed forty miles away from her prize before she met one of her consorts running North search of the slaver. An explanation took place, and the "Buzzard," reason to suppose she had been fairly sold tacked about and steamed away most wrathfully after the deceiving clipper. Too late for the prize, she was not too late for revenge, or at least so thought all the "Buzzards when they were rash enough to make an hostile landing on a friendly and foreign soil, and to carry their right of search into the various neighboring plantations, where they suspected the negroes might have been secre ted. Few, if any, were found, but it is to be feared that H. M.'s officers have got more than their trouble for their pains. The Spanish officer commanding the troops at Sagua has been summoned to Havana by order of the Captain General. He is now under arrest and awaiting his court-martial for having allowed this insult from the English to pass unpunished. On the other hand, H. M.'s Consul General at Havana is endeavoring to pacify the irri tation of the Captain General by offering all sorts of explanations and apologies. Concha, however, turns a deaf ear to all pro testations, and assures hisfriend, the British Consul General, that he extremely regrets anything so unpleasant should have occurred to interrupt the pleasant relations existing between the two governments, but that it is a question only to be settled between their respective governments. Here, then rest the question, and here it will rest for some time, t the affair treated with the usual delay of Spanish diplomacy.—N. Y. Express.

Living Beyond One's Means.

The Federal Government running toward bankruptcy, naturally enough, attracts the attention of the press, and of the country. The press, we say, -but we must except "the Union," the government organ in Washington The Editor of that Journal, as if in behalf of the Administration, cries for more and more expenditure, - in the style that follows :

"At the opening of the present session of Congress, an increase of both arms of the service was urged by the Secretaries of War and Navy, and recommended by the President. These recommendations were made with reference to the general necessities of the service. and not to any immediate emergency. Instead, however, of the five regiments of regular forces asked for by the War Department, three | course of time the post was completely filled regiments of militia have been granted by with nails. Congress: and, instead of ten small but effective steam corvettes asked for by the Navy in a state of sedate incubation over half a dozen sloops.'

The sneer of the Administration organ at the economy of Congress, both branches of which are largely Democratic, may or may not be deserved,-and it is not for us to determine.-but it is for us to see and to say if the Administration has the means, or is raising the means, to pay for what it wants, or even for what it has.

When President Pierce went out of office, he left in the Treasury for Mr. Buchanan . . . . . $17,710,114, (cash.) The Congress Loan since raised in Treasury Notes..... 20 000 000 15,000,000,

And the estimated expenditures for the year ending 1859, are believed to be

NINETY-THREE MILLION DOLLARS! The revenue of the country, under the altered tariff, appears to be utterly inadequate to stem the huge tide of these vast expenditures,-and hence, we have "Treasury Note" Bills, and "Loans," for any Administration whose President, in his first Message, commenced with a general attack upon Paper Money, Banks, and Bankers, -in whose power that Administration now is completely. And "the Union." the government organ, if heard and heeded, would, in the profligacy of further expenditures, but the more and more bow down the Federal government in its necessities for loans and Treasury notes .- N. Sordid Wretch-A Man Robbing his Wife's Grave of a Set of Teeth.

The people are certainly degenerating in the "land of steady habits." The following | those who are similarly afflicted. we clip from the Norwich (Conn.) Churier: "We had vesterday the particulars of a revolting transaction just come to light in Greeneville. Harlan Hyde lost his wife one year ago. She was his third wife, and has been one week ago, Hyde went to the Cemetery, dug open the grave, broke open the coffin, and rifled it of-what does the reader imagine? of a set of false teeth, that he might coin the gold plate upon which the teeth were set into money to put in his pocket! We dare say the fellow meant to sell the teeth too, if he could find a purchaser. We wonder not at the intense indignation which blazes against the miserable creature in Greeneville, or that the woman of the village can scarce ly be restrained from treating him to a coat of tar and feathers.

"Hyde is not far from 50 years of age, a house carpenter by trade, in comfortable circumstances as to property, and we shame to 50 BOX. GINGER WINE, for sale by DILLON & CO. add, is a member of a Christian church. The wife, whose grave he has descerated, was, as we have said, his third wife. When she married him, she is understood to have had some $400 or $500 in the savings bank. A part of this she used in furnishing her husband's house, and when dying she gave him her bank book, on which she had still standing, to her credit, between $200 and $300. It is now currently reported and believed in Greeneville, that when his wife died, and while she lay dead in her shroud in the house, her alfectionate husband attempted to remove the coveted teeth from her mouth; but the rigid muscle would not relax, and he was consequently compelled to suspend operations for 582 85 the time. But it was only a suspension. The purpose was merely postponed, not relin-quished, and after brooding over the idea for a twelvementh, he has finally put it in execution. Hyde not only confesses to have done this horrible thing, but he is even brazen enough to justify it."

LAMENTABLE ACCIDENT TO THE REV. Action of the United States Congress Reported in Havana-A Firm Attitude Approved of -Effects of the Styz Aggressions-Insurance Companie Alarmed-Rates on Gold Sent North, &c. The information received by the steamship abel, of the action of the United States Sen ate, the inquiries in the House of Representatives, and the demand of the President in relation to the aggressive action of the British West India gunbaot fleet upon the ommercial marine of the United States, have caused a good deal of conversation in all circles, and are generally approved. The orders for some of the Home Squadron to appear here, with the Colorado in the lead, to put a stop to these indignities, now of daily occurrence, have given a heart-springing sensation of gratitude from those who languish from the "stars and stripes." Our insurance agencies decline granting pol-icies on coin shipped in sail vessels of the United States for Northern ports, or along our coasts, to the various outports of the Island, where we are obliged to remit, to meet the expenses of vessels taking in cargoes for North or for Europe. Previous to these visits and the searches by British cruisers, we had no trouble in this respect. Policies at moderate premiums were always given for such purposes to vessels of reliable character. The change comes with the doctrine laid down by the "Admiral Cockburn" of the British war steamer Styx: "That sacks of ounces on board of a vessel in these waters make good evidence of intention of piracy by engaging in the slave trade," &c.; and if there is nothing else to condemn the vessel she is condemned because "she may have a consort to meet with the munitions necessary for the trade.' You will understand this annoyance about insurance by remembering that many important shipping ports of our island products have no steam communication with Havana, and sail vessels are the chance we have for the needful specie remittance. [Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Times.]

WASHINGTON, May 30. The war sentiment here is greatly on the crease, and has been very much accelerated by Senator Wilson's resolution and the debate upon it on Saturday. War has suddenly become the absorbing topic in the hotels and elsewhere, and there will doubtless be a great rush to hear the debate in the Senate to-morrow on the subject.

The Democrats express surprise that pro minent Republicans have taken the lead in hostility to the assumptions of the British, and will hardly believe them in earnest, but there is no doubt that they are; and thus all parties concur in taking the most decisive measures. The President himself wishes to be invested with the powers conferred by Wilson's or Douglas's proposition, in the event that the Derby Ministry adopt the conduct of the British officers in the Gulf, in which case there is every reason to believe that he would exercise these powers, and order the Styx and her coadjutors to be brought into an American port for adjudication. With this view the President has intimated his preference that Congress should remain in session until the arrival of the next steamer from Liverpool, with intelligence of the policy to be adopted by the British Government.
